

Table of Contents:

PAGE 2- Rector's Corner

PAGE 3- In Unity with the Holy Spirit + At the End of the Journey

PAGE 4- Castles and Knights and Wizards, Oh My!

PAGE 5- Leaders in the Making + Bang that Beat

PAGE 6- German Culture "Brat" to St. Lawrence

PAGE 7- Good Friday: The Day of Commemoration

Saving the World, One Serving at a Time

PAGE 8- The Great English Teacher

PAGE 9- Warning: You Can't Take Your Eyes Off the Stage

PAGE 10- Strike! Serve! Sprint into Spring Sports! + Scoreboard

PAGE 11- The Class of 2019

PAGE 12- Editors' Closing

2018-2019 Hilltopics Staff

EDITORS-IN-CHIEF:
Isaac Villegas and Peter Hall
Advisor:
Mrs. Deann Sippel

Writers:

Peter Hall
Carlos Núñez
Isaac Villegas
Khang Chau
Robert Little
Dominic Nguyen
Nicholas Rodriguez
Dominic Soto
Aaron Tarpinian
Claiemore Tango-an
Benjamin Bartlett
Ellison Juern
Thomas Nguyen
Andrew Tran
Aaron Villegas

Additional photos taken by marketing photographers

Photographers:

Jacob Koehler
Carlos Núñez
Isaac Villegas
Hyeonyu Kim
Eduardo Martinez
Nhat Phan
Josh Prado
Nicholas Rodriguez
Zach Nolte
Christian Orozco
Aaryan Studden

Miscellaneous:

David Draftz Daniel Reyes Benjamin Truong Adrian Pereira Ozzie Wagner

Rector's Corner

By: Fr. Zoy Garibay

"Do not be afraid . . . you never walk alone."

"When you walk through a storm, hold your head up high and don't be afraid of the dark.

At the end of the storm is a golden sky, and the sweet silver song of a lark. Walk on through the wind. Walk on through the rain. Though your dreams be tossed and blown, walk on. Walk on with hope in your heart, and you'll never walk alone."

These are the lyrics from Rogers and Hammerstein's famous 1945 musical, Carousel. Carousel tells the story of Billy, a carnival barker, who met and fell in love with Julie, a mill worker. The two got married but when Billy lost his job, he became sullen, difficult, and abusive towards his Julie. Things went awry from there. Billy was entangled in a foiled robbery and got caught. Fearing the prospect of being sent to prison, Billy takes his own life. Julie, now pregnant and destitute, is comforted by her cousin, Nettie, who sings to her this song. There is still redemption for Billy, however. Given another chance to set things right, Billy is allowed to return to earth in order to help and guide his now-adolescent daughter, Louise, through a difficult phase in her life. In the end, all is well, hope is restored, and Billy enters into his eternal reward.

We are still in the glorious season of Easter. I could not help but be reminded of this musical and of that particular song when I listen to the readings and reflect on our common vocation to be contemporary witnesses of Christ in our world. The Gospels tell us that Mary Magdalene (and the other Mary) were the first witnesses of Jesus' resurrection. Peter and the other apostles were witnesses also. However, by our baptism, we, too, are witnesses. We, too, encounter the risen Jesus—not so with our naked eyes, but with the eyes of faith—in prayer, in loving relationships, in service to others, and most of all in the Eucharist. Through baptism, we, too, partake in the mission to share the good news and proclaim Christ, the risen Lord, in all that we do. That mission is vital and still relevant in our days.

The world today is fraught with hatred, violence, and sadness. The message of Easter—God's enduring love, God's offer of forgiveness, and the hope that Christ's resurrection brings—is what the world needs. It is what we, as disciples of Jesus and his witnesses, can also help bring about. While it might seem daunting, we must remember what Jesus said to Mary Magdalene and the other Mary: "Do not be afraid." We, therefore, should not be afraid. We should not be afraid to be bold witnesses even in the face of adversity. We should not be afraid to proclaim the good news even in midst of a disbelieving society. We should not be afraid to practice our faith despite the threat of ridicule, or even persecution. We should not be afraid. We should nevertheless hold our head up high and walk on because . . . we never walk alone. God is with us in every step of the way, and the promised reward awaits those who persevere until the very end.

In Unity with the Holy Spirit

By: Dominic Soto

On Sunday, March 28th, 37 SLS juniors were confirmed and became adults in the Catholic church. As the students stood in line with their sponsors and moved closer to the Archbishop, their faith grew with the anticipation to be blessed with the Chrism oil and the wise words of Archbishop Listecki. When each Confermand finally met with the Archbishop, he crossed their heads with the blessed oil, and gave them a few wise words to keep with them. He also asked each of them about the saint they chose to reflect their confirmation name. "I felt enlightened by the Holy Spirit," explained David Le.

The sacrament of Confirmation is a long standing sacrament in the Catholic church. Catholics affirm their faith and promise to be Catholic for as long as they live and follow the church. In the sacrament, the Holy Spirit comes down upon the confirmandi and they are also reminded of their baptism. It's tradition at SLS to confirm the juniors each spring.

The juniors were excited to finally be called adults in the church. Eneo Tech, a junior and sponsor to one of the confirmandi stated, "I felt honored to guide someone into their faith." Daniel Trinh, who received the sacrament said, "My family was very proud of me." After Mass, the students and their families gathered in the refectory for lunch and cake in celebration.

At the End of the Journey

The period of four years in high school is the ideal time for students across the United States to ponder their future professions and career choices. At St. Lawrence Seminary, the sacred responsibilities of a Catholic and God's unique call for each person are earnestly taken into consideration in order to help a student decipher his vocation. Acknowledging that this process can be challenging and even frustrating to many Hilltoppers, the SLS Friars created Vocation Awareness Day – a tradition begun by previous rector, Fr. John Holly – which was recently hosted on Friday, March 29th. Intended to help the students better understand "vocation" and the importance of God in their own calling, five guests were invited to be on a panel and answer questions specifically about their vocation. The guests shared their personal perspectives on their calls from God, the positions they were currently holding, and the significance of faith in everything that they did. "I did not know that deciphering your vocation can be such a challenging process," commented junior Lalo Martinez, "but I believe that with faith in God and perseverance, we can do anything."

The day continued with the much-anticipated group activities, organized in the form of a competition between fraternities. Each fraternity was asked to create an original video and poster incorporating the theme of "Vocation" like in the past, but this time around, a new criterion was added: the poster and video must be compatible to each other. The final products were due by lunchtime, and were then evaluated and ranked by a chosen group of faculty members. "I was impressed by the creativity, the thoughtfulness, and, of course, the appearances of staff members in the films," Fr. Zoy Garibay, the Rector, remarked at the award ceremony. Fraternity 3 was declared the winner of the video-making contest, while Fraternity 5 had the best poster. "I am glad that our frat had the best video. We have talents in our team, and the amount of effort that was put in the final product was incredible," commented junior David Le.

At the end of the day, students, faculty and staff gathered to celebrate Mass in the chapel, with Fr. Jason Graves presiding. Seniors were asked to reflect on how the Vocation Awareness Day had left an impact on their views of vocations. The student body as a whole agreed on how they could become priests, brothers, laymen (married or unmarried), as long as God was made the center of their lives. As Fr. Jason Graves concluded the Mass with blessings for the Hilltoppers, they were then left to think, "What did God call me to this world for?" The answers may vary; the roads might be sinuous; but they know that God waits at the end of the journey.

By: Khang Chau

Castles and Knights and Wizards, Oh My!

By: Benjamin Bartlett

Every year, St. Lawrence Seminary puts on either a musical or a play in the spring. This year, all the way from England, students reenacted the play Arthur: Boy King of Britain. The play follows a similar plot to The Sword in the Stone, but has a few key differences. All the kingdoms of Britain were unified under the great King Uther Pendragon; after his death, however, the entire country went into disarray and was vulnerable to other countries. The audience follows the story of Arthur, son of King Ector, who tries to find himself in the country as it falls apart. He is guided by the crazy wizard Merlin, who guides him to discover who he really is.

The play, directed by Mrs. Margie Buelow, Mr. Martin Vu, and Mrs. Ann Konen, was launched early to begin practices. The parts were picked in March, and the cast was off to the races. The students worked hard to create their characters and develop their parts, making sure that they were perfect. In April, props were added and sword fights were choreographed. The set started to shape itself thanks to the help of Mr. Gary Buelow. and the woodshop class, building swords and backdrops for the scenes, and the stage was set. Sophomore Danny Draftz said, "Practicing was rigorous, but enjoyable. I was excited to perform."

The dress rehearsal went well and there were only a few hiccups. On the nights of the performances, the students were tense, but excited to perform. All three performances went well, and the audience seemed to appreciate all the efforts that went into them. A big thank you should go out to the directors and the assorted others who helped build props, as well as the stage crew and the performers themselves for all their efforts in this year's production of Arthur: Boy King of Britain.

Leaders in the Making

By: Dominic Nguyen

The junior leadership program, started by Fr. Keith Clark, strives to prepare the juniors at St. Lawrence to become student leaders in their senior year. The students are taught different life skills and leadership qualities through various seminars. The seminars are led by Dr. Rick Voell. So far, the juniors have learned the ins-and-outs to becoming a good leader. They've learned that leaders are people who strive to empower others. Furthermore, they've also learned what not to do; they've learned that manipulation and intimidation are not the routes to take when trying to be a good leader. They were taught how to control their emotions and feelings when dealing with different people, as well as how to manage their emotions in order to make good decisions. In addition, they learned to respect the views and perspectives of others in anything they do. All in all, through the junior leadership program, Dr. Voell has helped the juniors to become better role models and leaders as they embark on their senior year. Axel Huicochea stated, "The leadership program has taught me how to appropriately interact with those around me. It has helped me to strengthen my relationships among my peers and classmates. I believe that this leadership course will indeed help us to become good seniors next year."

By: Nicholas Rodriguez

Bang that Beat

Saturday, April 27th, the qualifying Saint Lawrence Hilltoppers traveled to UW-Oshkosh to compete in the State Solo/Ensemble competition. In order for the students to compete at this level, they perform along side thousands of students from all across the state of Wisconsin within various categories. Some of these categories included instrumental and vocal solos, duets, trios, or quartets. The requirements to compete at the state level were to perform a selection from the "Class A" category and to receive a score of 8 or lower to advance. Some of the performances which receive a first rating at state solo-ensemble festivals are recognized by their judges as an Exemplary Performance. This essentially means that students so designated were the best performers heard by their respective judges during the course of the day. This year, John Yoo received that designation for his musical theater performance. Julio Perea commented on John Yoo's theatrical role saying, "It was the best performance and it left everyone in tears."

This year, SLS did well at the state level. Second place finishers included a saxophone quartet made up of Josh Prado, Emilio Silva, Philip Zampino and Will Shaferly, two baritone solos by Nathan De Leon and Russel Kilian, the African drum quartet made up of Daniel McTigue, Anthony Le, Jose Sierra and Joseph Tran, who all received silver medals. First place finishers included tenor solos by Julio Perea, Sullivan Stier and John Yoo, a baritone solo by Benedict Wood and a musical theater role by John Yoo who all received gold medals. Joshua Prado said, "It was a nice experience to not only work with others in a group, but it was great to see how the others performed."

Saint Lawrence Seminary

German Culture "Brat" to Saint Lawrence

By: Aaron Tarpinian

Cultural diversity plays a big role in the community at Saint Lawrence Seminary High School. This sets it apart from other schools. At SLS the students and staff embrace the many opportunities to learn about other cultures. One of the biggest opportunities offered to St. Lawrence students, is the German exchange program between SLS and Collegium Johanneum (die Loburg), a high school located in Ostbevern, Germany. This year, the exchange program celebrated its 30th anniversary. Through the exchange program, students from Loburg and SLS alternate years in visiting each other's school. This year, the Loburg school sent 14 students 7 boys and 7 girls and 2 teachers to experience the USA, Wisconsin and SLS. Mr. Kevin Buelow, the German teacher at SLS, stated, "Our exchange with Germany continues to provide students with opportunities to grow in understanding the language, but also the chance to learn and appreciate the German culture. Students also get to make new friends." The two teachers, Marleen Bruning and Wulf Englert, that traveled with the exchange students said, "It was a unique experience for all involved, including ourselves. The sights were good, but the people we met were even better."

The exchange program began with the students and staff of Loburg landing at our nation's capital, Washington, D.C., on April 7th. The following day, many of the guests experienced their first glimpse of what American culture was all about. During their first stop, they went sightseeing to many popular destinations, such as, the Smithsonian, the World War II Memorial, the White House, and the Capitol Building. The following day, they took an early flight out of D.C. to embark on their final destination, St. Lawrence Seminary.

The German exchange students arrived at SLS on April 9th, and were well received by many of the SLS students who were eagerly waiting to host them. The exchange students quickly settled in and had fun of their own. They participated in many school activities, such as soccer games, volleyball games, bowling, and hanging out in the canteen. The students were also involved in many off campus activities. Their first off campus visit was to the Kohler Company and Design Center. There they witnessed the future of toilets and other plumbing items. They also visited the Farm Wisconsin Discovery Center, where they experienced Wisconsin's diversity in agriculture. They also experienced a few hours shopping at the Fox River Mall. Monday, April 15th, the exchange students traveled to Miller Park and witnessed something that they had never seen before, an American baseball game. They watched the Milwaukee Brewers face off against the Saint Louis Cardinals. The final off campus visit was supposed to be to the Horicon Marsh, but unfortunately it was canceled due to the weather. The German visitors went to visit the Lakeside Park Lighthouse on Lake Winnebago instead and went shopping in nearby Fond du Lac. Throughout the field trips, the German students experienced multiple aspects of Wisconsin, including some industry, agriculture, landscape, wildlife and entertainment.

Friday, April 19th, the much awaited Easter Break finally arrived. Nine SLS students shared the duty of hosting the Germans at their homes for the extended holiday weekend. Over the weekend, the exchange students participated in many activities with their host families, such as, a trip to Six Flags, a visit to the Willis Tower and riding four-wheelers. Fabian Rico-Sanchez said about hosting, "It was a new and unique experience for me. I learned a little more about the German culture." Lisa-Marie Kuhn, one of the exchange students said, "I enjoyed the time here because everyone was so nice. The time spent together was always fun."

On Tuesday, April 23rd, all students traveled back to SLS and participated in a farewell social, where they made their last few memories together. Wednesday afternoon, the exchange students said their good byes to SLS and started their journey back to Germany. On April 25th, the exchange students arrived back home to Germany. In 2020 when SLS travels to Germany, they look forward to reuniting with the German students.

Good Friday: The Day of Commemoration

By: Thomas Nguyen

This year, Good Friday took place on April 19th, which is a very meaningful day for the Catholic Church. Good Friday is the day we remember Jesus Christ's crucifixion and death at Calvary, also recognized as Golgotha. It is a day to reflect on how much God has provided for us. Through the death of His Only Son, the entire world was saved from sin. Catholics observe this day by attending worship services, through vigil services and prayer, along with fasting. Good Friday is always celebrated three days before Easter Sunday. During this time all prepare for Jesus' resurrection.

At Saint Lawrence Seminary, Good Friday was celebrated with a special assembly. This year, the presentation was a panel who talked about hunger and the homelessness. The panel was led by Mr. Jeff Krieg, who interviewed Br. David Schwab, Br. Rob Roemer and a special guest, Sonny. Aaron Villegas stated, "It was a very unique and humbling assembly. I am truly glad we have opportunities to attend talks like these." After the presentation, faculty, staff students and guests attend the Good Friday service and were dismissed for Easter Break. All in all, Good Friday is a powerful day for Catholics and Christians all around the world. At SLS, we make sure to preserve the observation of Good Friday and reflect on the astonishing gifts that God has given.

Saving the World, One Serving at a Time

By: Ellison Juern

Each year in the U.S., forty percent of food is thrown out. This adds up to 162 billion dollars of food each year, which represents more than 58 billion meals. Thankfully, at Saint Lawrence, the Sodexo staff and students are doing their part with waste management. Over the last few months SLS has started a waste management program. Saint Lawrence has been sorting the food waste by groups and counting up how much food has been wasted in total.

The idea for a waste management program was a joint effort between the school and Sodexo, the food service staff. So far, the waste management program has given the staff a better understanding of how many portions are being served versus how many are being eaten. There have been ups and downs in the progress of lowering waste, but students still continuously each waste about one fourth of a pound of food every day. The program will continue until the end of the year. The end goal of the program is to monitor and understand post production food waste, the food not consumed by the students after it has been made, and to reduce Saint Lawrence's carbon footprint of waste. Chef Gary Shrubbe said, "If there is anything to take away from the waste management program it is; take what you want, but eat what you take."

Saint Lawrence Seminary

The Great English Teacher

By: Andrew Tran

Students passing through St. Joseph's Hall are bound to run into Mr. Anthony Van Asten on the second floor. He has a very happy and jocular personality. Mr. Van Asten teaches Speech, Communications and Junior English. He is also an alumnus of SLS. He arrived as a freshman in 1997 and graduated in 2001. After he graduated, he attended the University of Wisconsin-Madison and majored in English Literature and Religious Studies. Later, he went to Marquette to receive his master's degree in Educational Policy and Leadership.

This spring, Mr. Van Asten started the Maple Syrup Project. Students who joined learned how to tap the maple trees and cook the tree sap down to maple syrup. They were able to produce many jars of Hilltop Gold, 100% pure maple syrup, to enjoy with friends and family.

Why did you come to SLS as a student?

"I had many roots here at SLS. My mother taught here and my brother also came here."

Why did you come back to SLS as a teacher?

"I felt like I owed something to St. Lawrence. So when I had the opportunity, I jumped at it. My original plan was to stay for four years, but the benefits were really good."

What was your favorite thing about St. Lawrence as a student? As a teacher?

"I think my favorite thing was the community. The community of staff and students. You could get help from teachers and classmates easier than anywhere else. I really appreciate the spirituality of this community. I didn't realize it at the time, but it's been great. It's been spiritually enriching as a teacher. It's not the same kind of spiritual support as other places or schools."

What is the biggest change you see in St. Lawrence since you were a student?

"I think the school has made tremendous leaps in updating itself for the 21st Century. We have more access to technology and the students have more access with technology."

What is your favorite thing about teaching?

"June, July, and August. Na, I'm just kidding. I like it when a student discovers a passion they have or a thing they have. That's my favorite part."

Why did you start the Maple Syrup project?

"I saw Doc (Doctor Gereon Welhouse) at the Christmas Concert and I brought up the idea with him. We used to do it as students. It helped me get out into the woods at a different time of year. Syrup is a cool product that students can make and share."

Is there anything you would like to say to your students?

"I guess this sort of lines up with maple syrup. There is a whole lot of awesome ways people make a living. Students should never stop finding their own passion."

Warning: You Can't Take Your Eyes Off the Stage

By: Claiemore Tango-an

On the Hill of Happiness, St. Lawrence Seminary hosts a student body filled with many skills. In order to highlight the extensive range of talent, SLS arranges a talent show every spring. This year, the Talent Show was on Saturday, April 13th. There was a plethora of acts, consisting of poetry pieces, singing, dancing, and much more. The acts were divided into two categories, ensemble performances and solo acts. Each performance was assessed by a panel of judges, made up of faculty members who then chose the winners, 1st place to 3rd place.

The annual Talent Show at SLS is one of the premier venues for students to showcase their artistic abilities on campus. From singing to dancing, to spoken word poetry and even stand-up comedy, the seminarians indeed have a lot to share with the community. Some of the acts that were performed this year were a brilliant guitar original by Solomon Wagner, a mesmerizing violin duet by Ciproquio and Caulodrino Williams, a relaxing piano solo by Anthony Le and Benjamin Barlett did a fascinating poetry reading, just to name a few. One could hear the echoing of thunderous applause from the crowd as each performer executed their piece. "The talent show this year was really good to watch. There were many types of performances ranging from solos to all out bands. It was amazing," explained Mr. Logan Burge.

The most popular category of the night was singing, which presented several highlights. The winning performances were in 3rd place, Philip Zampino's vocal performance "Evermore" by Alan Menken and Tim Rice, in 2nd place, juniors Dominic Nguyen, Lalo Martinez, Long Do, Daniel Trinh and Minh Nguyen's dance and vocal performance, and in 1st place, juniors John Yoo, Claiemore Tango-an, Hyeonyu Kim, Nhat Phan, Adrian Pereira, and Hunter Braund for their vocal and instrumental performance. The "oohs and ahs" from the audience when they saw the flips in the group of juniors Dominic Nguyen, Lalo Martinez, Long Do, Daniel Trinh and Minh Nguyen were just as memorable as the thick laughter that accompanied sophomore Andrew Tran's forensics performance called "Will You Be My Girlfriend?" Each act was introduced by emcees, Nathan DeLeon and Jacob Koehler. Their witty and humorous remarks kept the audience engaged as they hosted yet another successful talent show.

Annually the juniors of SLS perform a skit, this year, they went all out in their production of their humorous spoof. This year's junior skit incorporated the humorous teasing of teachers, and the surprising appearance of dinosaurs. Some might say that it was just the right humorous touch to end this year's show. Junior Eneo Tech shared his thoughts on the show, "I enjoyed the performances including the emcees, they were very funny, the use of puns, were somewhat fitting to every performance. It was very enjoyable."

The talent show was packed with solid performances all around. After tons of clapping and even a couple standing ovations, the curtain closed for the last time. When the auditorium was cleared and the lights were turned off, the talk of the night was all about how entertaining the show had been. Thanks for the hard work of Mr. Martin Vu, Mr. Logan Burge, Mrs. Margie Buelow, the student council, the emcees, the judges, the auditorium work crew and anyone else who had a hand in making it all happen.

Strike! Serve! Sprint into Spring Sports!

By: Aaron Villegas

The three Spring sports that Saint Lawrence Seminary has to offer are baseball, tennis and track and field. First up to bat is baseball. Sophomore Zach Nolte stated, "I love playing baseball. I really like that even when we don't do well, we still work together as a team and try to reach our goals. Baseball is my favorite sport." On the second serve we have tennis. "I really like tennis. I like that it is fun, competitive, and requires a good amount of skill. I especially like my coaches that help me to improve," stated junior Kha Nguyen. And in last place, but still coming in strong is track. "I do track because I love to run. I hope to improve enough throughout the season to go to state. I would really like to represent SLS at the state level," explained freshman Chueyee Lor.

Sports Scoreboard

By: Robert Little

Tennis

SLS 4-3 St. Mary's Springs

SLS 6-0 Howards Grove

SLS 5-2 Sheboygan Falls

SLS 5-2 St. John's Military Academy

SLS 3-4 St. Mary's Catholic

SLS 4-3 Wayland Academy

SLS 5-2 Wayland Academy

SLS 5-2 University Lake

SLS 4-3 St. Mary's Springs

SLS 1-6 Roncalli

SLS 1-6 Pius XI

Baseball

SLS 0-4 Living Word Lutheran SLS 4-8 Elkhart Lake Glenbulah SLS 1-12 Elkhart Lake Glenbulah

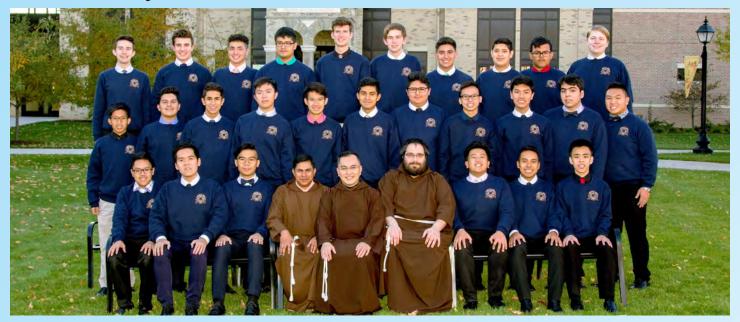

Track: Team Results

4/11 4th place 4/26 7th place

The Class of 2019

By: Carlos Núñez

Gerardo Aguirre
Carroll University
(Waukesha, WI)

*Nhan Bui*Marian University
(Fond du Lac, WI)

Nathan DeLeon
Cardinal Stritch University
(Milwaukee, WI)

David DraftzKansas State Polytechnic
(Salina, KS)

Abel Fernández Marian University (Fond du Lac, WI)

Pedro Fernández University of Illinois-Chicago (Chicago, IL)

Peter HallAve Maria University
(Ave Maria, FL)

Raynier Hurtado Marian University (Fond du Lac, WI)

Jacob Koehler Trade School (Germany) Anthony Le University of Illinois-Chicago (Chicago, IL)

Paohow Lor UW-Madison (Madison, WI)

Daniel McTigueMarquette University
(Milwaukee, WI)

Michael Nguyen
James Madison University
(Harrisonburg, VA)

Carlos Núñez
Marquette University
(Milwaukee, WI)

Armando Parra University of Illinois-Chicago (Chicago, IL)

Marcos Pedroza
Saint Mary's University
(Winona, MN)

Daniel ReyesSaint Xavier University
(Chicago, IL)

Ricardo Rodríguez
University of Illinois-Chicago
(Chicago, IL)

Alexis Rojas UW-Milwaukee (Milwaukee, WI)

Jose Sierra
University of Illinois-Chicago
(Chicago, IL)

Sullivan Stier Marian University (Fond du Lac, WI)

> Alex Thao UW-Madison (Madison, WI)

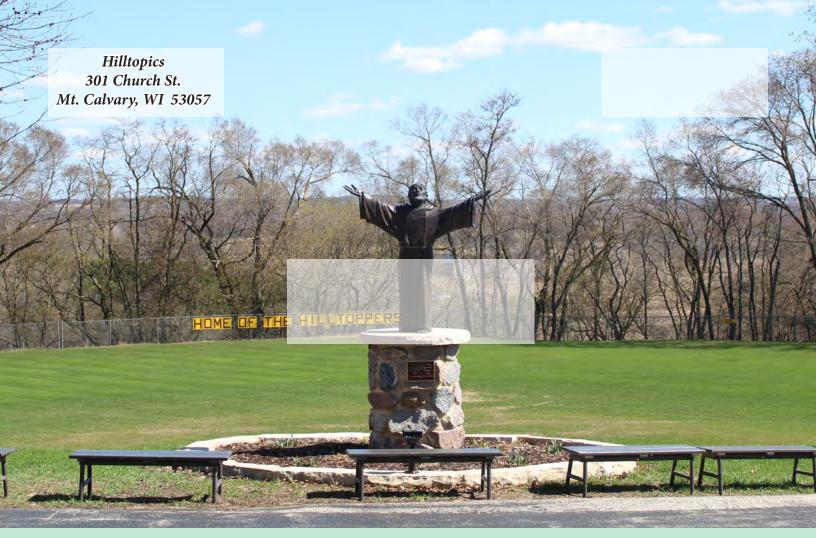

Joseph Tran College of DuPage (Glen Ellyn, IL)

Matthew Tran
University of North Texas
(Denton, TX)

Benjamin TroungUniversity of Saint Thomas
(Houston, TX)

Isaac Villegas Loyola University (Chicago, IL)

Dan VuOakland University
(Rochester, MI)

Editors' Closing

ISAAC

Wow! The final issue! I cannot believe that my senior year is coming to an end. It feels like just yesterday, I was a freshman getting ready for the first day of high school. And now, the countdown towards graduation is coming to a close. Throughout the four years, people have always told me, "It goes by faster than you think," and to be honest, I really didn't believe them. However, now that I am here, I realize that they were right. Looking back on everything that has happened to me during high school, I realize what it took for me to get here. The help of teachers and staff, and of course my classmates. They have helped me through so much. I would like to personally thank everyone for their help. Also, I want to wish good luck to Mrs. Sippel, Khang Chau, and Aaron Tarpinian on next year's volume of Hilltopics. Thank you for reading our volume of Hilltopics!

PETER

Four short years ago, on the day before his graduation, my senior looked at me and said, "Enjoy this while you can because not long from now, you'll be wearing a brown robe too. It will be over before you know it." Yeah right, I thought, how fast can three years really pass? But here I am, weeks away from my graduation. My Senior was right, my time passed much more quickly than I thought it would. Every day, I look up at the big countdown to graduation that we have in our study hall, and as the number of days gets smaller and smaller, I can't help but reflect on all the time that I have spent here. I would like to thank Mrs. Sippel and Isaac for everything they have done throughout the making of these issues. Congratulations to Khang and Aaron, next year's editors. Remember to make the most of the time that you have; it will be over before you know it.

